LOSELEY PARK – The 16th century home of the More-Molyneux family – during our visit to the House we will see many fine portraits and other works of art, furniture from the 16th century and special features such as the panelling from Henry VIII's Nonsuch Palace - Elizabeth I visited Loseley on four occasions. We will learn about the family's fascinating past connections with Royalty, but this is still foremost a family home which gives it a very special warm atmosphere. The gardens are perfect for a gentle stroll around.

WATTS GALLERY – Since 1904 it has been open to the public and houses over 100 works of the great Victorian artist G F Watts including portraits and landscapes plus his monumental artefacts in the Sculpture Gallery. Also within the site are other buildings of interest including Watts Chapel (a rare chance to see unique examples of art nouveau and celtic designs) and Watts Studio.
